Usually on games you get more diamonds when you achieve something, but the only thing I get is coins and many weapons and upgrades for my weapon to be paid for with diamonds. Another example when I got all 10 shots I had a great chance to get a lot of things that would make my experience better, but I had to pay that really me off because I did a challenge but didn't get a reward just because I didn't pay and I feel like I should have had something to achieve that. I enjoy the game and recommend a lot of people to play, but these are just things that I feel will make the experience better if you can get diamonds instead of buying them not only diamonds, but also other opportunities like weapons or new equipment👍❤️ As far as gameplay goes, I really enjoy this one! There's a lot of content and for a mobile game I actually find it really engaging and well designed. a game of good quality, nor do I mind the occasional ad and their premium offer is something I would not spend money on, but I can see why people would. Their diamond premium currency in the game is a bit overpriced for my taste, but I think it seems comparable to what I've seen in many other mobile games. Having said that, you are going to force AD down your throat every 15 seconds. Not exaggerated, if it's not third-party advertising, it's they're constantly besting for more money in the game by bombarding you with sweet deals that are so cheaper than store prices, and if you don't want to make a purchase add two more screens just make sure you don't earn on this sweet deal. Each. Time. It's going to ruin my whole experience. If the ads have been edited up to a third of what they are now I would give this game a much higher score. It just makes it look like developers don't care about how it interfaces with your user experience and like this whole thing is just a quick money grab. It really makes the value of otherwise quality games cheaper. TLDR: great gameplay, too many ads. Like an excruciating amount. I've been playing this game for a while. This is a good time wasting when you are waiting in line, etc. I appreciated that even though it's not flashy, it's pretty stable, and they at least gave you the opportunity to play for free without having to jump through too many hoops. But all that changed with the last update. Now the game is buggy - daily bonuses do not appear half the time, things load longer and worst of all, they started pumping ads every few minutes. If you don't pay for premium, you've already had to watch a lot of ads to get ahead of yourself in the game. But now they appear randomly every few minutes. I don't envy them making money, but the pendulum has sauered from sensible to terrible, literally overnight. If the change was accompanied by some big value added upgrade, it might not be that bad, but this game is mostly just recycled backdrops, NPC and side missions from one level to another. The game is really repetitive, especially in side missions and PVP, but also the main missions get recycled – which is again fine for leisure-wasting kind of game, but not when you see ads every two minutes. The game just doesn't offer enough variety to justify me spending more time with it. The developer, Fun Games Free, said the app's privacy practices may include data processing as described below.
